

The Hebrew University of Jerusalem

Students – do you dig it?

Photo: Tel Rehov, a ceramic altar from Area C (10th century BCE) © Ami Mazur

Summer programmes at The Hebrew University of Jerusalem are taught in English and include politics, history, literature and archaeology. Language courses, such as intensive Hebrew (ulpan) and Spoken Arabic are also on offer. Programmes range from three to twelve weeks.

This summer you can join a rather different study experience at a major archaeological dig – a Roman fort, a biblical community, or even a 7,000-year-old village in the Jordan valley.

So get down and dirty – call Jo on 020 7691 1478 or email jo.goldfine@bfhu.org now.

Support the University – Benefit the World

Reg address 126 Albert Street, London NW1 7NE
Charity reg no 209691 · Reg company no 6350828

British Friends of The Hebrew
University bfhu.org 