

The Hebrew University of Jerusalem

It's the thought that counts.

Original thinking. Innovative ideas. In a country renowned for the intellectual strength of its people, one name shines out. The Hebrew University of Jerusalem is a beacon of light, showing the way to a better future. Which other university helps combat environmental threats including bioterrorism, works to feed the world whilst still protecting natural resources, promotes regional co-operation and dialogue, houses the only veterinary school in the Middle East, preserves and enriches Jewish culture and has registered over 1,200 patents, from drugs to treat Alzheimer's and cancer, to hardier longer-lasting cherry tomatoes?
