

The Hebrew University of Jerusalem

Save Our Students

BFHU's normal task is to support The Hebrew University of Jerusalem in its innovative research.

But people are the heartbeat of the University and this year it's the students, badly affected by the Lebanon war and a national strike, who urgently need help. They need to extend their studies through to September and this takes money; not for research this time, but to put food in their mouths and a roof over their heads until the (now much later) end of their course.

Major donors are already supporting this initiative, so join the British Friends of the Hebrew University's philanthropic heroes throwing a lifeline to HU students, enabling their studies to continue.
